2020 Update

Billabong

User Guide

After nearly 15 years since its initial release, the popular Billabong Family has had a makeover to bring it into line with the high standards expected by MyFonts' font users. For most existing users of Billabong who are downloading this update you may not notice any difference. For other users who are updating existing documents please note that there has been a slight size change to avoid the clipping of long descenders that may occur in some apps. Also be aware that the encoding has now been expanded to LatPro and now includes many more glyphs to support 90 Latin-based languages. Consequently some glyphs needed to be renamed so ligatures may need to be re-applied when updating documents.

The OpenType feature set now includes Contextual Alternates, Fractions, Discretionary and Contextual Ligatures and Localised forms. New ligatures have been added.

Billabong is a Display Typeface and is best suited to short headlines, logos and wordmarks. While demanding attention it evokes a tone of friendliness with its quirky brush stroke feel and thirties charm.

To ensure good spacing use it without adding any extra letterspace and as with all good script fonts never use in all-capitals. We recommend turning on Discretionary Ligatures in the Opentype palette and select Metrics for kerning. Use Billabong sparingly and enjoy.
